

THE VOLLEYBALL KNOWLEDGE EXPERT REPRESENTATIVE

Volleyball England have created The Volleyball Knowledge (an insight advisory group) to direct and provide strategic overview to the collection and use of insight and market research within the organisation.

This group will consist of: the Director of Marketing, Volleyball England staff, academic representatives and membership representatives.

Volleyball England is looking for four representatives.

Please note: this is a voluntary position, but travel expenses will be paid by prior agreement.

Anticipated workload: Attendance at two meetings per year (most likely at SportPark in Loughborough). With regular communication between meetings and some individual research scoping or activity undertaken.

Skills required:

- Experience of designing research projects or working with external providers to outsource research
- At least 1 years' experience of undertaking research, albeit in a university or commercial environment
- Strong qualitative or quantitative research skills (or both)
- An understanding of the financial implications involved in conducting research
- An interest in volleyball

To apply: Send a covering letter detailing how you meet the skills required, why you would like to be part of the Insight Advisory Group and what you feel you could contribute, with a CV, to Ilona Berry at:
